The Abany Evening Jonraal thus pleads for the right of Congress to abolsh the governments of the Southern States aud make new ones to snit itself-

Congress does not propose to deny the existence of States. It has already acted unfavorably upon the plan of Thad. Stevens, which embodied a declaration of ede the legality of secession.

But while the States were not out, their rebellions inhabitants were, and those inhabitants succeeded in putting the political machinery in epposition to the Union. As a consequence of this treason. litical machinery in epposition to the Union. As a consequence of this treason the State Governments, being formed by rebels, constituted of rebels, and conducted to promote the schemes of rebels, ceased to have a legal existence, as was maintained alike by onr executive, military, legislative, and judicial authorities. The States had not ceased to exist, but their civil governments had. They were States without governments.

Such being the condition of affairs, the duty of Congress is evident. When it duty of Congress is evident. When it finds any State destitute of civil organizainnds any State destitute of civil organiza-tion. it must proceed to secure it "a re-publican form of government.' In doing this, it does not change the relations of the State to the Union. It simply trans-fers political power from the hands of one class of citizeus into those of another class, and provides for earrying on the husiness of the State in conformity with the requirements of the Constitution.

This is a poor excuse yet it is perhaps as good as the case admits of-no, For example, our Albany contemporary says, that, although the States were not ont of the Union, their people were; and from this remarkable assumption he dements. He says the people were out of the Union, and at the same time accuses them of treason; but, if they were ont of cannot be guilty of treason, which is a breach of allegiance. Our contemporary's argument, as he puts it, is too short at one end. However, alienage, if it exthe State Governments than treason; so that his argument is susceptible of amendment though, when perfected, it will not for there was no alienage in the case. The people were in the Union; and, being so, were no doubt technically cason vacated the State Governments is another question. In considering the extraordinary power now claimed for Congress, however, we are willing, as we have repeatedly said, to grant the affirmative of this question, and to proceed on the assumption that the rebillion actually ordingly admit this assumption.

"Such being the condition of af-

ment, which supposes a pre-existing gov-antied." This is Madison's language, levelled straight at the plea of our contem-

civil organization, it must proceed to se-enre it 'a republican form of govern-

As we say in the West, after our Saxon forefathers, it isn't Congress's say. If the State Governments were ever vaolent. In the Presidential canvass of 1860, he was fierce and violent for the election of John C. Breckinridge to the Presidency, his whole purpose being to have the Union broken up. During his administration of affixirs at New Orleans, he was ferce and violent in his oppression of the sitizans, exerting overthem a tyrange where the siting of the sitizans, exerting overthem a tyrange or before heard of in this connary. It is undoubtedly the duty of Congress to guaranty to every State a republican form of government; but it is he was fierce and violent in his oppression not the duty of Congress, under the pretence of executing this guaranty, to effect "alterations in the State Governments without the concurrence of the States themselves." If Cougress interposes by virtue of this authority, it is "of conrse bound to pursue the authority. But the authority extends no further than to a guaranty of a republican form of govern-

OUTWITTED BY THE MEXICANS.—The Mexicans have the reputation of being the shrewdest diplomatists in the world. They certainly will draw up the neatest paper, put it most beautifully in black and white and sign it with more flourishes than any other people we wot of. The only people who can approach them in the eareful wording of sentences, and in penmanship, are said to be the Persians and Arabs. The only reason we can give for this superiority is, that they are always coolcool as bandits. No word, nor sound, nor stroke of the pen shows agitation or excitement. In this way they so put forth the treaty with Gen. Scott, that the Mexicans to this dny believe Santa Anna got the better of the hero of Lundy's Lane, and sent the Americans home with a fleat and sent the Americans home with a fleat in their ears. but, beyond this, there are other reasons and deep-moving canses that have tended lately to almost an entire reorganization of the forces of this journal.

The principal of these causes was the combination of a certain class or "ring" of editors, reporters, and others, with the secret purpose of fleecing Mr. Bennett, Sr., in a most ungrateful and even criminal manner. This clique, led by a former correspondent, who had heen placed in a responsible position in the editorial room, was composed exclusively of Western journalists, who, in order to furnish the Western press with news, stole the material of the Herald's special dispatches from all parts of the world, and used the telegraph for the speedy transmission of the stolen property to the newspapers of the West. Although they received a large sum for this journalistic plundering, the the West. Although they received a large sam for this journalistic plundering, the proprietors of the papers receiving the benefit of their dishonesty could well af-ford it, considering that Mr. Bennett pays on an average three hundred dollars, in it a stupendous fraud on Mr. Bennett, and, moreover, to be supported and perpetnated by his genius and liberality.

With this design they began a systematic and continuous deerial of the merits of Eastern journalists, and one by one, through the employment of insidious means and artitl mendacity, they succeeded in ousting a good number of them, filling their places with "trustworthy" men from the West.

But a number of shrewd employes of the establishment, foreseeing the end to which ceeded finally in obtaining indubitable proofs of the nature and extent of the economous swindle being perpetrated on Mr. Beanett; and, accordingly, after having made all their preparations, and having procured written evidence on every charge, presented the papers setting forth the whole frand to Mr. Bennett himself. The result was the discharge of the entire "ring" and the repression of the boasted "Western enterprise" in the Herald editorial rooms.

LOTTERY SWINDLING IN NEW YORK.

> Order for the Arrest of Sixty Lottery Dealers, Including John Morrissey and Ben. Wood-Expose of Tricks and Devices.

(From the New York Reald of Sanday.)
An order has been issued by Justice Monell, on the application of Charles S Spencer, of counsel, for the arrest of John Morrissey, John A. Morris, Wm. C. France, Charles H. Murray, Z. E. Simmons, Wm., L. Simmons, Jacob Blauvelt, John McGee, Antonio Nathan, Wm. Ward, Wm. Craft, E. W. Hulse, and Oscar Clark, all of whom the sheriff is directed to hold to bail in the sum of $3,000 each.

The order of arrest was granted on the affidavit of Nelson B. Odell, a cooper in West Nineteenth street, near Teath avenue, who deposes that during the two years last past he has lost the sam of $25,000 at different lottery and policy shops kept and maintained by the above defendants, of which sum $10,000 was lost at the shop kept by Jacob Blauvelt at No.

ford if, considering that Mr. Bennett pays on an average three hundred dollars, in expenses and salaries of correspondents, for each dispatch, good, bad, indifferent, interesting, or otherwise, that he may receive.

The members of this "ring," however, bent on money-making, were not satisfied with the large returns thus gathered over and above their individual salaries, but, looking to still greater profits, sought, by the accumulation of powerful elements, to gradually work onward until they might have perfect control of every department above defendants were interested in the aforesard winnings from deponent. He further deposes that the sums so lost by him were on policies sold to him by defendants, known as "lotter? policy slips, pnrporting to be decided by the drawings of the "Keutucky State Lottery" and "shelby College Lottery, of Kentucky," which he alleges are "owned, managed, controlled, manipulated and conducted by the first ten defendants above named. The "deponent is informed, and believes and expects to be able to prove, that said drawings of said Kentucky lotteries, instead of having been lawfully and fairly drawn for

Deponent then describes in his affidavit some of the "tricks and devices" resorted to by defendants to effect these false and frandulent drawings, such as the employfrandulent drawings, such as the employment of one Lewis Davis to superintend the drawing in Kentucky, and to telegraph in cypher the result to defendants, who compared them with the numbers on the policy slips sold by them, and, if the drawowners and managers, they wilfully, de-liberately, wickedly, falsely, and fraudu-lently changed and altered the said num-bers so drawn in Kentucky, and replaced them by other numbers which were in agreement with the interests of such owners and managers."

Another "trick and device," he deposes, was to exclude from the observation of the drawing all persons not in the interest of drawing all persons not in the interest of the said owners and managers, and to "stock" the room where said drawings were made with myrmidons and ag nts of their own; that one of the parties thus employed to prevent the intrusion of the public upon the false drawings was John K. Briggs, who on one occasion, acting under orders of the owners and managers of the drawing, suspended a drawing for the avowed reason that said drawing should not be witnessed by any person who was not connected with, or in the interest of, said owners and managers.

The London Dailies.—The London correspondent of the Chicago Tribnne, who has been making researches among the daily newspapers of that city, gives some interesting statistics on the subject. Of the Times he says. "I am informed that its circulation, morning and evening, is about 00,000, and that its net profits last year were not far from £50,000." The most popular paper in England, owing to its cheapness and its powerful advocacy of the Reform question, is the London Telegraph. It is a morning paper only, and its circulation ranges from 155,600 to 160,000 daily, and its profits last year were within a fraction of $260,000. The Standard, a cheap paper, somewhat similar to Scrofula, White Swelling, Negro Conwithin a fraction of $200,000. The Standard, a cheap paper, somewhat similar to the last mentioned, circulates in its morning and evening editions about $5,000 copies, yielding a profit last year of not far from $125,000. The Herald, the old Tory dary Syphilis, General Debility, and organ, has a circulation of 1,000, which pays, however, about $10,000 profits. The Marning Advertiser, the victualer's paper, has a circulation of 25,000, and cleared last year $10,000. The Morning Post, the Arising from aristocratic organ, circulates even less than the Herald, and pays a out the same. The Paily News, so favorably known here for its opposition to the Rebellion, gets credit in well informed circles for a circulation of $5,000, and for a yearly net profit of $55,000. The Star, John Br ght sorgan, in which he is an owner, and sometimes a

One of the most curious subjects we find treated in the last number is that of artificial birds the last number is that of artificial birds' nests as they are now made in Switzerland under the direction of the societies formed there for the protection of insectivorons birds. One of the members of a society of this description, M. X.—, who inhabits Vevay, having observed that many species of that kind select for nests the holes they find in the trunks of rotten trees, and that they consequently do not find it easy to settle in orchards, where all the trees are in good condition, beyon twenty-five years ago to set up rotten trunks in his ground; and since then he has no need to trouble himself in the least about clearing away caterpillars, that care heing entirely left to his winged guests, who perform their duty admirably.

The London Spectator has this announcement: "Professor De Morgan, one of the greatest living mathematicians, and certainly far the ablest living thinker and teacher on the logic of mathematics, has reigned his chair in the University College, London, in consequence of the recent decision arrived at by the conneil of that body to reject Professor Martineau's candidature for the chair of intellectual philososhy and logic, on the ground of his philososhy and logic, on the ground of his denominational reputation."

The English Parliament will probably assemble on the 5th of February.

A LATE SENSATION.—The latest raptures of fashionable circles in New York are over a good-looking and preposessing young man, who styles himself George Gordon De Luna Byron. He was a captain during the war on Fremont's staff, and claims to be a son of Lord Byron and a noble Spanish lady of the De Luna family, by a secret marriage. The young here is said to possess every qualification that can assist in successful imposition upon a far less credulous public than that of Fifth avenue. Uniting to a fascinating person the most courtly manners and fine conversational powers, he presents another claim to be considered the offspring of the illustrious poet, in a remarkable familiarity with the life and character of Lord Byron. His claims have been investigated by some of the wisa men of Gotham, and he boldly challenges examination of the record by all doubters. In his we admire equally his plack and sagacity. No ope outside of New York has time or inchination to nadestake the investigation, and he need have no fears of immediate detection by a community always willing to be humbugged. We wish Captain Byron a good time generally in the enjoyment of the celebrity of his illustrions Anglo-Spaniah parentage, and a rontine of lionizing no less protracted than is usually accorded to those "eminent" foreign imposters, whom New York so delights to honor.

In most cases it seems that publisher, artist, and engraver must have been in too great a hurry. In nearly all we find coarsely executed, feeble, or blurred designs side by side with the most creditable work. It is very seldom that there is evidence of that rigid criticism of the work by the publish-

Sheridan's Report.

In response to the call of the House the President to-day transmitted a number of official documents touching Mexican affairs. The first of these is the protest of Gen. Ortega against his arrest, which has heretofore been published. In transmit-ting the protest Maj. Gen. Sheridan asting the protest Maj. Gen. Sheridan assigns his reason for ordering the arrest of Gen. Ortega. He says so long as he was merely engaged in attempting to create dissensions among his own people while sojourning in this country there was no violation of our neutrality laws, but when he went farther and formed combinations and appealed to arms to assert his claims as President of Mexico, he thus mainable as President of Mexico, he thus mainable. as President of Mexico, he thus palpably violated our laws of neutrality.

Gen. Sheridan considered it his duty to interfere. He took the precantion to warn Ortega against the prosecution of his de-signs, which he disregarded, and as he was satisfied Ortega was about to cross the frontier, Gen. Sheridan says he ordered his arrest on the same principles the Fe-nians were arrested for attempting to vio-late our laws by the invasion of Canada. should be reconstructed. To Grow Fixe Quinces.—Quinces are easy to raise, provided they receive attention. We have grown samples the first season weighing a pound each, perfectly smooth and sound.

Quince trees can stand about eight feet assuader each way, thus giving four to the square rod, or 640 to the acre. The fruit commands good prices and prohably and mmands good prices, and probably an ore of ground could not be more profitay planted with anything else.

Quince trees need ground culture. Not Quince trees need ground culture. Not by digging or ploughing about them, but by mulching with chips, spreading on a coat of stable manure each fall, and by applications of liquid manure, especially urine. There should be a few quince trees near the house, to receive the urine and other slope, which will not do an equal amount of good to any other pro-duct. This treatment will insure such fruit as will bless both the eyes and the Quinces canned are a good substitute for peaches, and most persons, when accustomed to their use, will like them fully as well. There is nothing more beautiful in the fruit line than a glass can filled with large quartered. The color is beautiful, and the quarters preserve their shape. Perhaps the pellicles, which form the little sacks of butter in the cream, are thicker and tougher. There are two methods of obviating this trouble in a degree. One is tougher. There are two methods of obviating this trouble in a degree. One is, to act the pan of milk on the stove, or in some warm place, as soon as strained, and let it remain until quite warm—some say until a bubble or two rises, or until a skim of cream begins to form on the surface. Another mode is to add a teaspoon of salt to a quart of cream when it is skimmed. Cream thus prepared will generally come to butter in a few minutes when churned. It is thought the salt acts upon the coating of the butter globules and makes them tender, so that they hereak rapidly when beaten by churning
